Medical Grade Skincare

Medical grade skin care products are known for their high concentration of active ingredients. You can only buy them from clinics that are ran by specialist medical staff.

A consultation with a Dermatologist, Nurse or certified Medical Aesthetician is required to purchase these highly-concentrated products so you can be sure you are investing in a skin care line that is going to transform your skin.

Medical grade skin care products are scientifically proven to work through years invested in clinical research. Their studies have been published in numerous medical journals, this and their high concentration of active ingredients is why they are found at a higher price margin than OTC products.

They are formulated to reach the deepest levels of the skin to help produce cell turn over, collagen, and elastin production reducing fine lines, wrinkles, age spots, acne scarring and other problematic areas.

Tebiskin Products

TEBISKIN Cytoceuticals are products designed to improve overall skin condition and intended to be used in dermatology, cosmetic dermatology, plastic surgery and cosmetic/aesthetic surgery.

They are formulated to support the pre, inter and post phases of various medical procedures: their utilisation is useful to improve and prolong the aesthetic result and to counteract complications.

TEBISKIN Cytoceuticals are based on a specific research aimed at understanding the complex mechanisms that underlie the molecular biology of keratinocytes and fibroblasts, the principal cells of the epidermis and dermis.
